Not illustrated. 1859 Excerpt: . . . on shore, the tide being up, with the things promised to the men, to which the captain, at my intercession, caused their chests and clothes to be added, which they took, and were very thankful for. When I took leave of the island, I carried on board for relics the great goats-skin cap I had made, my umbrella, and my parrot; also I forgot not to take the money I formerly mentioned, which had lain by me so long useless, that it was grown rusty, or tarnished, and could hardly pass for silver till it had been rubbed and handled, as also the money I found in the wreck of the Spanish ship. Thus, then, I left the island the 19th of December, as I found by the ships account, in the year 1686, after I had been upon it eight-and-twenty years, two months, and nineteen days; being delivered from this second captivity the same day of the month that I first made my escape from the Moors of Sallee. In this vessel, after a long voyage, I arrived in England the 11th of June, in the year 1687, having been thirty-and-five years absent. When I came to England, I was as perfect a stranger to all the world as if I had never been known there: my benefactor and faithful steward, whom I had left in trust with my money, was alive, but had had great misfortunes; was become a widow the second time, and...
