

My Memoirs of the British South Africa Police, 1966-1981: . And a Colonial Upbringing in Northern Rhodesia

By John Shaw

Helion & Company. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, My Memoirs of the British South Africa Police, 1966-1981: . And a Colonial Upbringing in Northern Rhodesia, John Shaw, Throughout the author's life in Northern Rhodesia (now Zambia) his father was a member of the Northern Rhodesia Police and the author sets about recording various incidents in the life of a youngster growing up on the numerous towns and police stations at which his father served. The family moved to Southern Rhodesia in 1964. Finalizing his secondary schooling at Chaplin School, Gwelo, Rhodesia, in 1965, the author joined the British South Africa Police (BSAP) in March 1966 and elected to go into the district branch of the Force. The author traces his career from a young patrol officer, through the various ranks and district police stations on which he served, to his retirement in August 1981 as a superintendent, in what was then Zimbabwe. He highlights the typical lifestyle associated with a district 'copper', including anecdotes from the Bush War that was raging. Apart from the lighter side of the book- hitting an elephant at Makuti at 1 a.m. in a Mini Moke; realizing five minutes before presenting his men on...

READ ONLINE
[5.28 MB]

Reviews

This ebook can be worthy of a read, and much better than other. I have read and i am certain that i am going to planning to go through again once again in the future. You may like just how the writer compose this book.

-- Mr. Grant Stanton PhD

A whole new eBook with an all new standpoint. It is actually rally fascinating through reading through time period. You wont truly feel monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogues are for relating to when you request me).

-- Claire Bartell