Dept. of the Interior, Minerals Management Service, Gulf of Mexico OCS Region, 2002 LC Number: TN871. 3 . S67 2002 v. 1-2 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)51092385 Subject: Offshore oil industry -- Social aspects -- Louisiana. Excerpt: . . . additional researchers spent from two weeks to several months each in southern Louisiana talking with families and gathering information on community and industry organization. Preliminary study findings were shared with participants in a series of 21 focus group meetings held in the communities between March 8 and 19, 2000. Due to the changes occurring in the industry and the region at the time of the study, researchers maintained communication with local contacts and returned to the communities through June, 2001. Discussions were often tape-recorded and always summarized in written notes. Families and Communities As this volume demonstrates, OCS activity is the source of a wide array of workplaces and patterns and establishes the parameters within which many different lifestyles develop. Workers and their families have indicated that the nature and extent of OCS-related impacts vary according to industry sector and position within...
